Financial Fitness Day — March 31, 2015

How does Financial Fitness Day work?

When you arrive at Financial Fitness Day, you'll have the opportunity to sit down for a free, personalized financial planning session with a Certified Financial Planner. Drop in anytime between 9am and 3pm—no appointment is necessary!

During your personal session, we'll collect your contact information so you can be entered into drawings for door prizes!

After your personal session, you can talk one-on-one with other partners about:

- Credit report review
- Unclaimed property searches
- Budgeting and saving
- Financing college and higher education
- Legal issues
- Employment searches
- Social Security Disability (SSD) benefits
- Utility conservation and savings
- Financial products and services

There will also be workshops available throughout the day.

What workshops will be available?

In addition to your personal session, you can participate in any or all of four workshops to explore these topics in-depth:

- 10am: Getting on Track Financially
- 11am: Couponing
- 1pm: Estate Planning
- 2pm: Preventing Elder Abuse

What questions can I ask the experts at Financial Fitness Day?

Bring any questions you have about your personal finances, expenses, savings, investments, or assets! You'll be sure to leave with useful information. Here are some questions you might want to ask:

- How do I improve my credit score?
- How can I connect or reconnect with a bank or credit union?
- How do I avoid foreclosure?
- How do I save up for a car or house?
- How do I finance my child's college education?
- How do I set up a will or estate plan?

How do I find out more about other upcoming events and resources?

If you want to find out how you can participate in more financial empowerment activities after Financial Fitness Day, call 502-574-5156 or visit www.BankOnLouisville.com!
